GARDEN GROVE KIWANIS RAMBLINGS, PUBLISHED WEEKLY

MAY 5, 2005

The Work Goes On

Looking for a way to spend a few hours? Just ask Jack

The park really peaks in beauty in May, thanks to Jack. It's just a shame that we all have our heads full of festivals and corn booths around this time. At least a lot of other groups are using the park. The troop we sponsor has produced an eagle and will be holding his court of honor at the park June 3rd at 7 pm. Get Peter Carter to pronounce the boy's name if you need a laugh.

Announcements

- May 12th is the Mothers' Day celebration at Kiwanisland.
- Mastroianni's neck surgery occurred last Friday. Give him a call and express concern.
- Huntington Beach Kiwanis is coming May 26th for an interclub. Lets stash Ray's bell in the trunk of somebody's car and use a dinner bell that night.
- Corn booth, corn booth, corn booth! Sunda, et al., still looking to fill up the sheet. Set-up on Tuesday May 24th, work shifts Friday through Monday, 27th-30th.
- May 19th The Garden Grove Galleria gets presented to the GG Planning Commission at GG Community center. We have some interested parties among our members. Please come and express your feelings on the matter—unless you want a driving range there, then stay home.
- We reached a new height of hilarity Thursday as we fined a member during the prayer. No Petrosine's phone did not go off and no one interrupted the fill-in pastor, Broadwater. It was Broadwater himself who asked for God's blessings on our "Rotary club." To his credit, he was able to fish $5 out of his pocket with his eyes closed.
- Charles Kim bought another Bob Main original birdhouse after feverish bidding. We estimate that we can stop all this corn booth and golf tournament nonsense if Main will just make about 1500 birdhouses a year. Hey, every little bit helps.

Happy / Sads

Tom Elliott happy to be here, less than two months to go on OC Grand Jury, and about to have a one day vacation in Temecula. Gall wants to encourage the troops for the corn booth. Petrosine happy dollar to be alive for another week of Kiwanis, another dollar for next week. Malm glad to see Petrosine counting out his money. Main for Jay's surgery and a dollar to be here. Hodges glad to part of the group. Kim happy $20 for Galleria project and $5 for speaker. Schlenker agreed on the speaker, but sad $2 that he cannot attend the corn booth because he will be at two graduations for his children, for which he kicked in $200! Glasby sad $50 to have sold the first Harley Davidson he owned. Broadwater sad $1 for misspeaking during the prayer. Singer wants to see us Friday or the Hoag foundation will start rethinking our lease agreement. Leeb for speaker. Sunda happy to be here. Carter brought back by popular demand to stand behind the podium.

David Mirisch Gives us the Lowdown

David Mirisch, son of the producer who brought us The Magnificent Seven, Barefoot in the Park, and many other films, does celebrity fundraising and golf tournaments in particular. He provided us with a brief overview of how to take our tournament up a level in fundraising. We would have to sign a contract with him, but then we would get a celebrity per foursome. As chairman of the golf tournament, Leeb, will be holding a meeting before next week's ladies night to hash out ideas. All in all, a very entertaining night.

Thought for the week: "No snowflake in an avalanche ever feels responsible."
